Annual General Meeting

The Deer Ridge Community Association AGM will be held at Trico Center (1115 Bonaventure Drive S.E.) on Tuesday, June 18th, 2018 at 7:00 p.m. in the Senior's Room (upper level). Snacks and beverages will be served: arrive early because it's more fun when there is good food and casual conversation to share! Meet-n-Greet 6:00 - 7:00 p.m.

The Board of Directors are a small group of folks representing the entire community of Deer Ridge. The Board of Directors have direct contact with your City Councillor and Provincial MLA at each of the monthly meetings. Did you know the community association is a non-profit organization registered with Alberta Societies and as such a large portion of funding is from AGLC fundraising casinos? Would you like to know how that money is spent? Do you have some ideas for new youth programs or other community efforts the community association can initiate using the funds?

We need your voice for input!

We need your participation!

We welcome all residents to be involved in the process of building a strong, vibrant, and safe community! Deer Ridge Community Association members in good standing may participate in the election of new/returning board members as well as vote on motions for ongoing community planning and expenditures. All residents are welcome to attend and take part in discussion!

Are you interested in attending but getting a babysitter is an issue? No worries, there is plenty of space in the meeting room for your children. Remember to bring child's favourite books, tablets, toys.

FAMOUS FIVE DISTRICT

Anticipation is already mounting for the fall program. Girl Guides of Canada has developed a new program based on the wishes of the girls, parents and Guiders. It'll be girl-driven with lots of new badges and lots of fun.

Beginning June 11, new girl members will be able to register for the fall program start. To register your girl, visit www.girlguides.com, click on the Unit Finder button, enter your postal code and select the branch, unit and location that suits your family best. Sparks (ages 5 & 6), Brownies (ages 7 & 8), Guides (ages 9 to 11), Pathfinders (ages 12 to 14) and Rangers (ages 15 to 17) all accept new members.

Classic Cookie stock is disappearing. If we missed you, please contact Pat, isteads@telus.net with your address. Cookies are the major fundraising for Girl Guides and your purchase allows us to provide programming that teaches self-respect, community awareness, safety, leadership and so much more.

Would you like to become a leader for the fall? We're always looking for women to help. No experience necessary. No daughter required. Why not start the registration process now, take advantage of program workshops offered in June and be ready for fun in September? Contact Pat, isteads@telus.net, for more info.

Identification of Your Pet is Critical

by Jennifer L. Scott, D.V.M.

Recently, I have had conversations with clients about the importance of pet identification. In one case, the client had lost their cat for three months years earlier. Ultimately, the cat came home fat and happy, but a microchip led to that reunion. In the second case, a pet adopted a year earlier had supposedly been scanned by the adoption agency. Both my clinic scanners easily read an unknown microchip in this dog. The pet owner is deciding what she wants to do to follow through. It is her dog now, but this may give us access to important medical records in an older pet.

Many years ago, I remember a veterinarian in the United States saying one of the most important advancements in animal care was the new microchip technology to identify pets. Nothing is more devastating to an owner than losing a loved pet and the consequences to the lost pet, especially if it is injured, could be grave. Humane societies, animal control units, and veterinarians will do what they can to treat and alleviate suffering in a lost and injured animal. Unfortunately, decisions with injured pets might be made contrary to an owner's wishes.

Two years ago, on a Saturday afternoon my husband and I returned from shopping. As I pulled into the garage, a local veterinary emergency clinic called asking if I owned a Papillion. I discovered in the conversation not only did they have my Papillion, they had her sidekick our Labrador retriever as well. Our teenage sons had left the front door open and were hanging out in the backyard as the dogs went out the front. Good Samaritans had picked them up and turned them in to an open veterinary clinic, and their microchips had them home within an hour. Even the most conscientious owners in the world can have accidents happen. The horror of what might have happened also taught both my sons an important lesson.

Most cities have a tattoo system incorporated in their spay and neuter programs (Alberta cities do). A person who finds a lost animal can phone a local clinic and give the numbers and letters in the ear. A master sheet that can trace the pet to the specific clinic that spayed or neutered the pet and from there to the owner. Calgary Herald once carried a story of a woman reunited after years with her Pug that was stolen through the tattoo in his ear. Again, the system relies on a readable tattoo and up to date records. Occasionally a pet is returned to a home down the street by the finder who calls and gives the tattoo over the phone to someone and the pet never enters a clinic or other facility.

Dog licenses and personalized tags are great, but collars can be lost, and collars can be dangerous on cats running at large. The city of Calgary cat licenses requires cats to be kept indoors and identified by a tattoo or microchip. However, not everyone keeps their cats strictly indoors, and accidents happen when a cat or dog slips out.

Microchips are injected easily under the skin between an animal's shoulder blades. The chip is permanent and is read like a bar code in the store. Every veterinary clinic or animal shelter should be able to read the chips. This means your pet can be traced to you twenty-four hours a day if information at the database is current. Databases can include alternate contacts if you are on holidays as well as medical records.

Reuniting you and your pet no matter what type of identification or combination of identification you use is paramount to everyone's benefit and peace of mind.

Summer Camping Hacks

Summer is here and with it...camping season! Driving around we see a lot of RVs parked around Deer Ridge, so this month we downloaded a few camping hacks to help you enjoy your outdoor weekends. Much more in Pinterest and other sites...so this is just a start!

1. Make Pizza in your sandwich iron with sliced bread. (Yummy!)

2. Adding sage to your camp-fire or fire pit keeps mosquitoes and bugs away.

3. Keep kids occupied by making an adorable and easy keepsake bracelet out of duct tape. Really useful if you are taking them on a hike.

4. Make some S'moreos

6. Pack your eggs for travel (16-oz) water bottle will hold 8-9 large eggs

7. Store items in a hanging shoe organizer

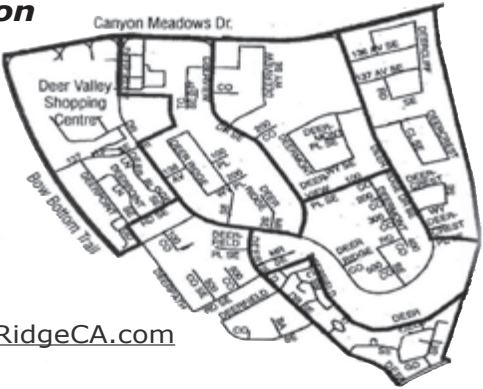

8. Keep Bugs away with shower caps

5. And while the kids eat S'moreos you can have Bailey's dipped toasted marshmallows!

June is upon us and soon we will celebrate the longest day of the year. I know that many of us are planning a glorious summer of outdoor fun and adventure. One summer stop for my family will be a visit to the pandas at the Calgary Zoo. The pandas are more than just a cute tourist attraction bringing thousands of visitors to Calgary. The pandas represent many years of establishing a relationship of trust with China's people and government, and I am proud to have been involved. Trust is key to all relationships and we all must work hard to earn the partnerships, friendships and community spirit that come from our sincere commitment to others.

In my last newsletter, I mentioned my Private Members Bill abolishing Adverse Possession. Behind the scenes I have also been working on increasing awareness among small businesses of the recent changes to the Labour and Employment standards. I worked closely with industry and advocated tirelessly to encourage government to do more consultation prior to passing the Bill. Unfortunately, they felt that 30 days of online surveys was sufficient, and the legislation was passed. The result has been thousands of small businesses not having the resources nor latitude to ensure sustainability and compliance. A strong business sector and compassionate social services are mutually dependent upon one another.

While I am energized by representing you in the Legislature, session will gratefully end on June 14th. Calgary is my home, and after 26 years in #YYCFishCreek I am looking forward to spending time with you, my "bosses". So please say hello when you see me in the community or at your doors, where I seek the opinions that matter to me and guide my humble representation. To connect with me at the office, set up a meeting or join me for my next MLA Café June 2nd from 9:30-11am. I am always available to meet with you in my commitment to serving all residents of Calgary-Fish Creek now and into the future. It is my privilege, honour and passion and I am grateful for your support.

Save the date for my 3rd annual Stampede BBQ, Saturday July 7th 11-2pm at our Bonavista Downs office. We will have live music from Barter and Cash, carnival games, face painting and Spolumbos. Giddy Up!

I think most Calgarians are itching to spend some time outside when June rolls around. Everyone is looking to have some fun.

Fun Summer Activities

I will be writing about just some of the fun summer activities that this city has to offer. There is bound to be something for you, your kids, your parents, and even your grandparents. I will talk about golf, Canada Day celebrations, after school programs, recreation programs, summer day camps, and seniors' programs in more detail at calgary.ca/ward14newsletter.

Ward 14 Wordsmith Award

As I write this, my staff and I are reading through hundreds of essays in search of a winner. That talented grade six student and their entire class will be joining me at Council for a day. Visit calgary.ca/ward14newsletter for an update on the winner.

Olympic Update

This is an important, and controversial topic. Council has struck a committee to oversee management of our investigation of the Olympics, and I am on it. Look for an update at calgary.ca/ward14newsletter.

Counciltalk

This will be the first ever Counciltalk in McKenzie Lake. It will also be the last Counciltalk before we take a bit of a break for the summer. Join me at the McKenzie Lake Community Association (16198 McKenzie Lake Way SE) on Saturday, June 23. Make sure to note the late start though. We will be there from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. I hope you can take advantage of this opportunity, but it won't be the last. Look for the next scheduled Counciltalk at calgary.ca/counciltalk.

Don't forget to visit calgary.ca/ward14newsletter for the full version of this column, and feel free to contact me any time. The best way to do so is by visiting calgary.ca/contactward14.

Compost & Compost Tea

By Barbara Shorrock

For many years the City of Calgary has been encouraging us to compost our vegetative matter by selling black plastic composters in the spring. Compost is nutrient-rich humus that is the end product of plant material breakdown. Calgary's heavy clay soil contains little plant material and compost lightens the soil, helps it hold oxygen and moisture, and adds valuable nutrients. If you allow leaves to remain undisturbed for a year or two, Mother Nature will do the job herself. We gardeners are far too impatient to wait for this, so we compost. Of the many ways to build compost, this simple one is my favorite:

Recipe for Compost

1. Brown Material
2. Green Material
3. Soil
4. Water

Method: Locate your compost container in a sunny location, out of sight, and easy to access. (If you can't get to it, you won't use it.) Pile in a bunch of brown material (dry leaves, straw, wood chips, sawdust, paper, dryer lint, vacuum fluff, etc.) You need way more brown stuff than green stuff so be generous. Add a layer of green (kitchen peels, coffee grounds, tea leaves, anything fruit or vegetable, weeds, grass clippings). Throw on a couple of shovels of garden soil. This will be teeming with lots of helpful critters like bacteria, fungi, and earthworms. Add some water from the rain barrel (tap water will work but chlorine slows down the process a bit) to make it damp like a sponge. Now add more layers of everything until the container is full. Put on the lid and let it work.

Hints: Small pieces decompose faster than big ones. Chop if you are in a hurry.

Stir it up occasionally, or at the very least poke holes with the prodding tool you bought with the composter. Moisture and oxygen must be available right down to the bottom for the process to work. Add more brown and green and soil as you work in your garden and as the pile shrinks. Keep damp, but not too wet.

In Calgary's short growing season, the compost you start in the spring will be ready the following spring. One started in the fall will be ready to mulch on the beds the following fall. If you have two containers, you can have compost all year round. Keep a bucket of some sort under the kitchen sink and add clippings and peels to the composter as it fills up. I always bag some fall leaves to use the next summer and have been known to beg leaves from my neighbours when my trees were little.

Compost Tea is simply a bag of compost steeped for a few days in a garbage can of water. If you use city tap water, let it sit for a couple of days first for the chlorine to evaporate before adding the compost. Stir occasionally. In a few days you will have a lovely organic tea full of nutrients your plants will love. Filtered and in a spray bottle, you can mist the leaves; unfiltered, put on the ground around the roots. This is perfect in the spring to give your babies a boost, and throughout the early summer (diluted) to keep them healthy. Remember, though, that the tea will likely be high in nitrogen which stimulates leaf growth. If you are looking for fruit and flowers, you may wish to discontinue mid-July.

Jackson. I helped to give him all his glory. But I liked him

I say goodbye.”
